Introduction to The Green Book

The Negro Motorist Green Book was an annual guidebook for African-American roadtrippers, commonly referred to simply as the Green-Book. It was originated and published by New York City mailman Victor Hugo Green from 1936 to 1966.

Before the accomplishments of the Civil Rights movement, African-American travelers faced hardships such as white-owned businesses refusing to serve them or repair their vehicles, being refused accommodation or food by white-owned hotels, and threats of physical violence and forcible expulsion from whites-only "sundown towns". Green founded and published the Green Book to avoid such problems, compiling resources "to give the Negro traveler information that will keep him from running into difficulties, embarrassments and to make his trip more enjoyable."

From a New York-focused first edition published in 1936, Green expanded the work to cover much of North America, including most of the United States and parts of Canada, Mexico, the Caribbean, and Bermuda. The Green Book became "the bible of black travel during Jim Crow", enabling black travelers to find lodgings, businesses, and gas stations that would serve them along the road. Shortly after passage of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, which outlawed the types of racial discrimination that had made the Green Book necessary, publication ceased and it fell into obscurity.

In spirit of the Green-Book, the Black Business Network resource group at Schreiber Foods has recognized the challenges new partners face when moving to a different location. We want to focus on our partners and their unique cultural concerns and interests, which may be hard to find in an unfamiliar community. Supporting the talent and skills that our partners provide to our business extends beyond the workplace. With this Green Book, BBN wants to help partners who are relocating feel comfortable in their new communities and embrace the opportunities it has to offer.

Congratulations on accepting your new role with Schreiber Foods and welcome to Green Bay, home of Schreiber's Merlin G. Bush (MGB) plant and home office. This guide is designed to help you settle into your new community. If you have further questions about the plant or the community, please contact your HR representative.

Green Bay is the flagship city and economic hub of northeastern Wisconsin. Home to 105,000 residents, population continues to increase. Green Bay's strongest traded industries are agriculture and food processing, paper, packaging and printing, advanced manufacturing and transportation and logistics.

Although what is now Schreiber's home office was not built until 2013, Schreiber has always been present in the Green Bay community. This city was the birthplace of Schreiber with the first facility, MGB, opening in 1947.

Green Bay delivers plenty of opportunities for outdoor recreation in nearly seventy parks and trails scattered throughout the city. Throughout the year, there are also hundreds of cultural events, including those provided by local theater organizations and civic symphonies, and other events and festivals hosted by the growing business community.

No matter the time of year, you're bound to see a proud Packer fan sporting the green and gold around town. Green Bay is the smallest city in the United States to host a professional sports team, the Green Bay Packers. Lambeau Field is hallowed ground to most sports fans, as the Packers are one of the most storied franchises in all of professional sports and the only team in the NFL to be owned by fans. Football is a big piece of Green Bay's culture, and celebrated or involved in most community events.

Spring (March-June)

The last freeze typically occurs in early May. Though it can still snow during early Spring, temperatures have started to mellow from the bitter cold of the winter months. By June, warm weather is starting to become consistent, with temperatures in the 65 to 85-degree range.

Summer months (June – September):

Average temperatures in a Green Bay summer hover in the 80-degree range. During the peak of summer in August, it's not uncommon to have several days over 90 degrees, with the warmest days hitting 100.

Fall (September-December)

By September, most of the extreme heat has tapered off, but there can still be warm days as fall approaches. Once the warm weather at the beginning of the season fades, fall turns pleasantly cool during October and into November. This is a beautiful time to enjoy the trees changing colors and many agricultural products in the area being harvested.

Winter months (December-May):

January and February are the coldest months, with average low temperatures in the teens and single digits. It's also not uncommon to have the temperature drop below zero degrees several times during these months. When the wind chill factor is added, it can feel like -10 or even -20 degrees. Averaging 40-50 inches of snow in the winter, Green Bay usually experiences its first snowfall in mid-December.

SUMMER WARDROBE STAPLES:

Layering is the key to Wisconsin summer weather. Although it may be hot at one location, temperatures can be affected by the lake.

- On a hot and humid summer day, you're best off in cool and casual cotton or linen clothing. The heat of the day gives way to a cooler evening, especially near the lake, that will require a lightweight sweater or sweatshirt.
- Bug repellent is an absolute wardrobe essential for the summer. With 56 species of mosquitos buzzing around in Wisconsin summers, a good repellent will keep you comfortable. You can find a quick summary of options from the Wisconsin EPA here: www.epa.gov/insect-repellents

WINTER WARDROBE STAPLES:

Just as layering is important for Wisconsin summers, it's absolutely essential for surviving the winter.

- Long underwear and/or heavy tights, made of material that wicks away moisture, are perfect for under your clothes to offer an additional layer of warmth.
- When temperatures drop, being warm is far more important than looking glamorous. A quality winter coat, like down coats with a wind resistant shell, are the best at keeping cold from penetrating.
- To complete your look, invest in several pairs of heavy wool socks to keep your feet warm and dry. Brands to consider are Smart Wool, Keen, and Woolrich.
- If you want to go anywhere in winter, make sure to get a quality pair of snow boots. Be sure the boot is roomy enough that your foot can move around comfortably in a thick wool sock.
- Winter accessories like mittens, gloves, hats and scarves are also necessities. Specifically, look for waterproof and windproof materials. A synthetic liner that can be removed for drying and fleece and wind-resistant materials are a good place to start.
